

Joffre Community Advisory Panel (JCAP)

July 2017

The Joffre Site has been working with the community for many years. In fact, the original FARM-AGE (farming community and the then-company name, Alberta Gas Ethylene) started meeting in the early 1980s. The group has evolved along with the world-scale petrochemical site and today is referred to as the Joffre Community Advisory Panel (JCAP).

JCAP meets quarterly and includes representatives from companies located on site and community representatives from areas surrounding the facility. A wide range of topics are covered, including business results, operational challenges, growth projects, environmental performance, community concerns and contributions and outreach activities.

Please feel free to contact any of the members for more information, or to provide your views or suggestions regarding the Joffre Site.

Purpose

A community liaison committee working to identify and address local issues related to the Joffre Site petrochemical facilities.

The group facilitates the communication of information, concerns and kudos from the community to the company, and complements the company's various communication activities to the community.

Goals

- To promote and enhance two-way communication between the community and NOVA Chemicals and other operations resident on NOVA Chemicals lands (eg. AltaGas, Cogen partners, OMERS, INEOS).
- To share Responsible Care®, sustainability, operational and appropriate business information to help the community understand some of the site's activities, challenges and performance.
- To identify and communicate local community issues and broader regional issues affecting the local community related to Joffre Site operations to the company.
- To provide a forum to dialogue on issues or opportunities and develop recommendations.
- To identify opportunities for the broader / shared community to work with the local petrochemical industry to address cumulative issues.
